Religious Television: Controversies and Conclusions (Communication and Information Sciences)

Robert Abelman, Stewart M. Hoover

This volume addresses the various and highly topical controversies surrounding religious television by examining its history, structure, content, viewership, and social impact. It represents a compilation of original essays written by the world's leading scholars, regulators, authorities, and watchdogs of religious television. Each controversy is addressed from a wide range of perspectives. The result is a most interesting exchange of ideas and ideologies: the presentation of empirical data, theology and learned opinion, and an assortment of insightful conclusions.
