Arts and Crafts: A Thriller J. T. Prescott

NOT LONG AFTER HIS move into the Spring Village retirement community, former covert operative Ken Frazier gets an unexpected visit. His good friend and former colleague, George Larsen shows up spouting outrageous stories about a clandestine meeting, an impending sniper attack, and a woman who was just killed. And he says the US government is behind it!

It all sounds impossible, but when George is found murdered the very next day, Ken knows he has to act. He confides in two members of his old team. They want to help him just like they used to. But, what can three old men with failing hearts and bad knees do about it? Painfully aware of their physical limitations, they resolve to embark on one more mission. They desperately need a younger person to be able to execute the plans they develop. Who will they recruit, and is it even possible?

They are among the finest minds in the covert world they just need a little help.
